

DRC January 17, 2024

By disciplined_daytrader · January 17, 2024

Well I made money but I also was going long with decent size when Weight was clearly below OP. I think this scenario is okay because we were extended in terms of ATR on Weight and Indices so it was likely that it would not continue further to the downside, plus VOLD ADD both were ripping higher at open with no signs of looking back while indices held the low very well. It was hard to capture this move as there were tons of flushes in the meantime but holding micros was the way to do it and it worked nicely. made $200 on ES and $75 on MES so overall not a bad little base hit day.

