

DRC January 26, 2024 (you dont have edge in this price action so why are you trading it?)

By disciplined_daytrader · January 26, 2024

well again Im fighting a market that will steal my money in any fashion regardless if im 100% correct on my thesis. This is the definition of low probability trading. We have FOMC JOLT NFP all next week and the market is just chopping around attempting to take everyones money before that event occurs. I lost $500 in the past 2 days just from fighting the market into oblivion meanwhile my system was never even A+ in the first place. Such a bummer that I am willingly giving away money (albeit its all fake sim money so fuck the market makers) but its just depressing that I can go long and short in 1 day, lose both trades, meanwhile the market just does basically my most unexpected price action that it can possibly do.

unless we have 4/4 on predata days, dont fucking trade it? how about that.

