Considering the price action and opex today was a good day. I saw mag7 moving higher holding its 15ema while rty ym started to fall and knowing we are in a rotational environment made me get long es and nq but only for a small scalp opportunity. did not expect this to go to HOD in the slightest especially given that add was red and opex is today. I think in a perfect world I dont even trade today because of add conflicting the long thesis but considering I knew it was a rotation trade and not a momentum trade and I scalped it according to that thesis was great.
