

TradeJournal Creates Alumni Network!

By winkler · May 30, 2022

TL;DR

The TradeJournal Alumni Network has been established for former and current team members, including employees and interns. This network aims to support career development and celebrate individual advancements, fostering long-term relationships among alumni.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

About

Purpose & Benefits

How to join?

About

The TradeJournal Alumni Network has been created for all former & current TradeJournal team members. This includes part/full-time employees as well as individuals who completed an internship.

Purpose & Benefits

Our purpose with the Alumni network is to support the development of each other's passions and careers!

We'll post individual advancements from within TradeJournal and also outside of our company. We want to congratulate any advances our alumni make as they grow individually and also professionally. We hope this will foster strong long-term and mutually beneficial relations between everyone who has had an experience at TradeJournal.

How to join?

Become a TradeJournal employee or graduate from one of our internship programs.

FAQ

What is the purpose of the TradeJournal Alumni Network?

The purpose of the Alumni Network is to support the development of members' passions and careers, while fostering strong relationships among former and current team members.

Who can join the Alumni Network?

Anyone who has been a part of TradeJournal, including full-time and part-time employees as well as interns, is eligible to join the Alumni Network.

What benefits does the Alumni Network offer?

The Alumni Network provides a platform to celebrate individual advancements and career growth, helping members stay connected and support each other professionally.

How does the Alumni Network celebrate members' achievements?

The network will post updates about individual advancements both within TradeJournal and externally, congratulating alumni on their professional growth.

Is there a cost to join the Alumni Network?

There is no mention of any cost to join; eligibility is based on being a current or former employee or intern at TradeJournal.